

Cullman Farmers Turn To Dairying

CULLMAN, Ala.—From sales of cream which they have produced in connection with their general farming, 350 Cullman county farmers received this year $20,000. Most of this cream was bought by the local creamery, some was shipped to Birmingham.

And of these 350 farmers, many started in dairying following the recommendations of County Agent R. M. Reeves. Since becoming county agent he has advised farmers when they thought qualified and equipped to add a few cows to produce cream for sale in addition to an abundance of milk and butter for the family. Many of the Cullman farmers engaged in dairying at the beginning of 1932 began in 1931.

Very little money has been required for each one of them to begin milking cows, said Mr. Reeves. The majority of them started with the cows they had, the milking or milking machines they learned by experience. They have sold cows which were not good milking machines for a few dollars, Jersey being the favorite breed. Seven registered Jersey cows have been bought this year and are being kept in different communities in a cooperative way. One bull owned by a number of general small dairymen.

"In addition to the income from cream, single milk and butter for the family, richer soil, and better farming, cows and poultry have been added by many of these small dairymen," Reeves continued. They make milk and butter as a by-product of dairying—feed hogs and poultry, thereby adding to the income. Reeves said that from 125 dairy farmers having hogs sold that their sales this year have amounted to $130,000.

The dairymen feed home-grown feed, such as corn, cotton seed, soybean hay, and alfalfa. They have bought this year a few hays; play a good pasture which is the basis for profitable dairying.

Alabama Farmers Are Using Barter Method

Alabama farmers are rapidly adopting the barter method of exchange for their farm products. This is reported by the Alabama Department of Agriculture which is now making a survey of the barter method in the state.

At present over 13,000 farmers and business men of the state are exchanging their farm products and marketing millions of dollars worth of products which would otherwise be lost.

Seth P. Storr, commissioner of agriculture.

"Any farmer or business man in any county of the state may obtain the bulletin free by writing the Department of Agriculture in Montgomery," he said.

Miss Jessie Mae Carroll, home demonstration agent for Franklin County, reports that 4-H club girls are doing excellent Red Cross work. The girls are making a variety of products and are collecting garments and distributing them to the needy.

Franklin County farm women and girls who are members of 4-H clubs will conduct a Christmas market in the county seat on December 17. Only farm products will be sold. A score of different articles will be distributed to the needy.

Department of Agriculture Makes Further Salary Cut

To carry out the spirit and intent of the salary reduction bill passed by the special session of the legislature, salaries of employees of the department of agriculture will be reduced even though the bill does not apply to these employees.

This is announced by Commissioner S. P. Storr, who said that the bill will reduce only seven salaries in the department due to the fact that all salaries were reduced more than a year ago by $20,000 annually.

In making the announcement about the salary reductions, Mr. Storr said that he believes it was the intention of the legislature to reduce all salaries and for that reason the salaries of the employees of the department are being reduced even if the law does not apply to the department.

Commissioner Storr said that the department is not a part of the self-supporting department of the state government and has no right to a budget. He said that the falling off of its income by 46 per cent.

42,000 Alabamians Move Back To Farm To Live

Rather than stand in city bread lines, 42,000 Alabama persons have moved from cities back to the farm within the past three years, reports F. W. Gist, statistician for the Department of Agriculture.

The movement back to the farm from the urban center, made a place in the state, and during the past year 40,000 persons, or 6,000 more than the year before, returned to the farm. The following year, 10,000 persons found places on farms, and during the past year 30,000 persons, or 6,000 more than the year before, returned to the farm.

The result is that practically all the families in Alabama are now on farms. The result is that practically all the families in Alabama are now on farms. The result is that practically all the families in Alabama are now on farms.

Engineers Needed, Says Dean Wilmore

AUBURN, Ala.—After a partial study of the use of trained engineers on construction work in Alabama, Dean John J. Wilmore, chairman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, has concluded that insufficient engineers are now being trained that their services could be had at savings in excess of their salaries.

Dean Wilmore has studied the engineering work of Alabama counties, and he has found that the services of an engineer are needed in many of the counties. He has found that the services of an engineer are needed in many of the counties.

"Ceph" Davis, Former Coffee Countian, Killed In Mississippi, Arresting Negro

The Clipper received a letter Tuesday from Jim Knight at Glen Allan, Miss., enclosing a clipping from a Greenville, Miss., paper describing the murder of W. J. C. (Ceph) Davis, which occurred at Glen Allan on Sunday, December 19, 1932.

Mr. Davis, born and reared in Coffee County, went to Mississippi about seven years ago to make a home for the past ten months he had been married at Glen Allan, and according to Mr. Knight, was making a good effort and liked by every one.

W. J. C. Davis, 45-year-old town marshal and deputy sheriff of Glen Allan, was shot through the heart and instantly killed by a party known as the "Ceph" Davis, which occurred at Glen Allan on Sunday, December 19, 1932.

More Money Crops Needed In Alabama

AUBURN, Ala.—A diligent search is now being made for farm cash products in addition to cotton for production by Alabama farmers.

This fact was in evidence at the annual meeting of the Alabama county demonstration agents in Auburn the week before Christmas when plans were made for extension work in 1933.

In searching for other cash products the extension workers turned immediately to livestock—especially dairying and poultry. There are weekly cash products in addition to distributing labor and providing other farm advances.

Attention was called to the fact that the best prices are expected to be paid for the products of the year. The products of the year are expected to be paid for the products of the year.

NEW TRUCK LAW WENT INTO EFFECT TUESDAY, DEC. 27

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 28.—Ever since yesterday all persons who operate trucks for hire beyond the corporate limits of any city must obtain a permit and pay a special fee of $10 to the probate judge of their respective counties.

This requirement is a part of the Tilden act regulating contract carriers. In addition each contract carrier must provide insurance of $5,000 for property damage and an additional $5,000 or $10,000 for personal injury.

In addition a tax ranging from one-half cent per mile for vehicles in which the truck and load weigh 9,000 pounds or over, and ranging from one cent per mile for five ton and over, must be paid by the carrier.

Under regulations of the Public Service Commission, charged with enforcement of the act, each carrier must file a statement of the mileage operated on or after February 15, 1933, provided the truck is used in interstate commerce.

Honest Money Is Important Need

AUBURN, Ala.—Speaking as a farmer for farm leaders, Col. J. A. Edwards, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, told extension workers of Alabama in their annual conference here Thursday that stabilization of money values is essential to the economic welfare of business as well as agriculture.

As a basis for this stabilizing act he suggested 1926 prices, which were approximately the average for the period of 1920-1929, in currency. One way to do this, he explained, is to reduce the amount of gold in the gold dollar from 23.22 grains desired by Congress in 1834 to 16 grains.

An act of this kind the speaker believed would stabilize the dollar at a foot and three-eighths over a foot and four below the gold mark, where the dollar stage is 47 feet.

Outside Influence Blamed For Talapoosa Trouble

Negroes involved in the Talapoosa county trouble were "rooted" from the county by the influence of outside forces, according to a statement made by a local official.

"Recent trouble in Talapoosa County has caused so much concern among the people of the county that it is necessary to state that there is no such thing as a free lunch, and that the people of the county are responsible for their own actions."

OBITUARY—OLIN J. WILLIS

On Saturday, December 10th, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Willis and took their son Olin. He had been sick four days when the Lord saw fit to call him home. He was born August 17, 1907, and had been an invalid all his life.

It is so hard to give him up but the Lord knows best. His will be done, not ours. We know that our loss is heaven's gain, and we live in the hope that some sweet day we may meet him where there is no suffering or sorrow, and where joy shall never cease.

He leaves to mourn his going his father and mother, two sisters, four brothers and many other relatives. Funeral was held Sunday, December 11, by Elder J. J. Richards at Pine Level Church. Interment followed in the church cemetery.

His chair by our friends is missing. His voice we freely miss. A place is vacant in our home that never can be filled.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people of this and other communities and Dr. Brang for their kindness and assistance during the sickness and death of our son and brother, Olin. Also accept our thanks for the beautiful flowers. May heaven's richest blessings rest on all of us.

MR. AND MRS. E. O. WILLIS AND FAMILY.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends of Elba and New Brockton who have expressed sympathy and sent flowers to our husband and father in his late illness, and the many kindnesses shown in our late bereavement.

FARM ECONOMIC FACTS

(By J. D. Pope, Auburn.)
The number of farmers in Alabama in 1932 was about 6,000 more than in 1931, and the acreage cultivated was about 2 per cent more.

F. W. Gut estimates that the purchase of farm supplies on credit in Alabama for the production of the 1932 crop was probably $25,000,000 less than the credit store bill of 1929.

From 1929 to 1931 the gross value of crop production in Alabama declined about one-half while that of livestock production declined about one-third.

Economists of the Kansas Agricultural Station forecast that there will be some improvement in hog prices by late December over early December prices.

If each unemployed person in the United States were to become a farmer and produce what the average farmer produces the output of the farm products would be trebled.

When peanuts bring $20 per ton, hops $2.50 per hundred pounds, cotton $30 per bale, and yields are average, the gross value of an acre of cotton is twice that of an acre of peanuts harvested or converted into hogs on hogs.

About 3.5 per cent of the Alabama cotton crop ginned prior to November 1 consisted of inch state and longer, the highest proportion of such lengths on record for any year since the government grade and staple reports were begun in 1928.

The morning after the village of Equality, near Harrisburg, laid off its only night watchman.

It was found robbery had entered and robbed a filling station, a hardware stand and a grocery store.

AN EMPTY BOTTLE

When the connoisseurs of the Robertson County court house at Springfield, Tennessee, were opened some time ago, due to a remodeling of the structure, many articles deposited in it a half century ago were brought to light.

One of the items known to have been placed therein was a bottle of whisky, and onlookers at the opening of the Robertson County court house had hopes of sampling the famous product. But if so, they were doomed to disappointment.

The bottle was found, but it was empty, the contents having previously disappeared by evaporation. On the bottle was the inscription:

"This whisky was made at the distillery of Wiley Woodard—and deposited by J. S. Brown, Sept. 26, 1879; whisky was three years old when deposited."

Many other interesting relics were found in the stone, including newspapers, minutes of official proceedings, lists of fraternal society members, a history of the old Klu Klux Klan, a bank statement and other documents. There was also a coin which is now 191 years old.

The bills were no more valuable than the empty bottle, however, as they were Confederate currency.

EVOLUTION OF THE VAMPIRE

In current slang, as is well known, the term "vamp," a contraction of "vampire," is used to designate a seductive female.

In olden times, and even in recent years in parts of eastern Europe, the vampire was a more sinister and fearsome entity.

In its original meaning, the vampire was supposed to be the soul of a dead person which leaves the body at night to suck the blood of living persons, usually causing their death. Hence, it was believed that upon opening the grave of a vampire the body would be found still fresh and rosy from the blood thus absorbed.

Dead persons most likely to become vampires were supposed to be those who had committed suicide or had come to their death by violent means, also wizards, witches and those who had been cursed by their parents or by the church. A cat crossing a grave might transform the occupant into a vampire.

To stop the depredations of a supposed vampire, it was thought necessary to drive a stake through the corpse, sever the head, remove the heart, burn the body, or pour boiling water and vinegar on the grave.

Later the term vampire was applied to certain species of blood-sucking bats of Central and South America, concerning which many popular superstitions have also arisen.

Finally, we have the alluring vampire, or "vamp," of the movie screen and Main Street. But there isn't much superstition about her.

ORIGIN OF BASEBALL

While baseball as we know it is a sport of comparatively recent development, a game in which a tossed ball was batted with a rude club has been traced back to the 14th century in Europe. The present American game was probably an outgrowth of that "town ball," played in New England from 1850, in which the runs were made around posts set in the ground, instead of bases.

The first code of baseball rules was formulated by the Knickerbocker club of New York in 1845, the first match game was played the following year, and the first game money series of games took place at Hoboken in 1858.

The game was found, but it was empty, the contents having previously disappeared by evaporation. On the bottle was the inscription:

"This whisky was made at the distillery of Wiley Woodard—and deposited by J. S. Brown, Sept. 26, 1879; whisky was three years old when deposited."
